

Governments should not impose gender ideology on children, which has huge negative impact on their mental health. No secrets should be kept from parents undermining the primary role of parents as the source of values, religion, and principles for their children is not acceptable.

- Demand parental consent for children under 18 and the right to reject gender education in schools while emphasizing parents' essential role in shaping their children's values and principles.
- End the imposition of third-party organizations in schools spreading inappropriate materials and refocus on core subjects while respecting parents' central role.
- Schools should prioritize teaching critical thinking English, Math, Science, and History, while creating a culture that values human rights and dignity for everyone.
- Prevent the government from overstepping its boundaries and uphold the importance of parental values and principles.
- Address concerns about explicit content in schools with a focus on appropriate boundaries, while considering parental values.
- Assert that parents, as the primary source of values, religion, and principles, should not be considered criminals for protecting their children and advocating against dangerous ideologies. Keep SOGI and gender ideology out of schools!
